the city for 35 cents per month

HAPPY is the man who lives in Tombstone in these trying times. Being off a line of railroad we are not bothered with hungry tramps to feed. This may be called a selfish spirit but charity begins at home.

PRESIDENT DIAS formally opened the Mexican congress-yesterday. His message fails to treat upon the silver question. His message is largely devoted to detailing the progress made in the republic during the past year,

The silver convention held at Albuquerque adjourned yesterday after a successful session. It will meet a year hence in El Paso. Resolutions endorsing the action of silver men in congress were passed, as was also one favoring free coluage at a ratio of 16

THE World's Fair commissioners have an unexpended balance of $5,000 on hand. Very few bodies of men can make such a showing. The people of Arizona are to be congratulated on the showing made by the board. A less conscientious body of men would have spent all in sight and called for

THE PROSPECTOR is under obligations to M. A. Smith for a copy of the Congressional Directory, containing three hundred pages of interesting information on government affairs and a biographical sketch of each member of congress. The terms of thirty senators will expire March 3, 1895, while in each of the years 1897 and 1899 the terms of twenty-nine members of the senate will expire.

Piles, Itching Piles

Symptoms-Moisture intense itching and stinging, most at night; worse by the City appealing from the judgment scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form which often bleed and ulcerate becoming very sore. SWAYNE' OINTMENT stops the itching and bleed ing, heals olderation and in most cases removes the tumors. At drug-gists or by mail for 50 cents Dr wayne & Son, Philadelphia. s

PRODUCTS OF THE SEASON.

DATE enting is the intest fruit craze. A commission per writing from Paris is enthusiastic over a young girl's bed draped with white lace over rose-colored sills

A NEW lamp shade, presumably intended for a bride, is of white silk, garlanded with orange blossoms arranged in prodigal profusion.

A PRETTY necklace for a young girl consists of daisies, the petals in silver, the hearts in gold, forming a flexible circle to fasten about the throat.

FRILLED curtains, a frilled spread and a round belster finished with big and a round conser massive with our rosettes converts the plainest bed into a delightful object, and, when added to one of the popular white and gold sort, means a very dream of girilike beauty and freshness.

MEN AND THEIR MONEY.

You Can Judge Character by the Way Cook Is Carried.

If you want to know something bout a man's character, watch how he handles his money. The generous, careless man carries his money loose in his pocket—copper, silver and gold all mixed up together and when he is an inxect of projection—and when he is going to pay for anything he takes out a handful and picks out the amount he requires, says the St. Louis Peat-Dispatch. He seems to have no fear of robbery, for he is of a trustful disposition, and, being perfectly honest him self, thinks most others must be like

Of course he is often cheated and imposed upon, yet he never entirely loses his faith in his fellow creatures A fine nature is his—in fact, too fine to cope with the many greedy, grasping mortals that flood the world. The man who, if he has to pay a few pence won't even take the trouble of count ing out the amount of coppers, but throws down a piece of silver to be changed—and by the by he rarely counts his change—is a type of "a fool and his money are soon parted." Per-haps a lore of display, almost insepar-able from such a character has able from such a chareter, has so thing to do with this.

A careful man always carries a purse and keeps the gold, silver and copper in different compartments. A man like this never wastes his money. values it as it ought to be valued, and, though not niggardly, is determined to have his money's worth. He quite be-lieves that "any fool can make money. but it takes a wise man to keep it, and he is right. The mean man never lets you see what money he has. When he is go-ing to pay for anything he turns his back to you, clutches his money tight. and, so to say, draws it out of his hand, clacing the coins down one by one, for se is loth to part with them, even for necessities. Such a man is not far re-moved from a miser, who rarely car-ries money about his person at all. un-less it be sewn up in his clothes. Remember, the man who jingles his money in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred hasn't got much. A bunch of keys and a few coppers make a good

est an original character in the person of M. de Gaste, deputy for Brest, says the London Globe. He was a simple. He was a simple, honest fellow, and enjoyed the esteem not only of his colleagues of the left but also of his adversaries on the right. He made himself celebrated by his everlasting fur coat, which he wore in all seasons, and which earned for him the name of "Pere Hiver." likewise irreverently called "L'Homme-Chien." on account of his shaggy bair and whiskers which he allowed to grow and whisters which he allowed to grow in wild profusion and made him look like a Skye terrier. His umbrella, his hat and particularly the cut of his clothes also rendered him famous. His colleagues smiled, but liked him none the less for his eccentricities. He had one great day in the chamber, when as doyen d'age in the place of M. Pierre Blane, who was unwell, he presided over the first sitting of the session. On over the list sitting of the session. On that occasion he delivered a speech in which he embraced every political question under the sun, and might have gone on occupying the house till doomsday had he not found it suddenly city with all his ships unless it empty. He was most assiduous, arriving the first and leaving the last. He was born in 1811, and was originally a civil engineer of the first class. Un-like most of his republican colleagues he was a staunch Catholic. Every day as regular as clockworkshe would mount the tribane and bring forward some unexpected motion which, much to his sor-row, was invariably shelved. Once, however, his motion was passed, and nobody was more surprised than him-self. Of later years he took to female emancipation, and attended the meetings of the strong-minded sister-hood, to which two of his daughters belong. At home in his native Brittan he was beloved by all for his generos ity and the pleasure he took in doing service to his fellow-countrymen. His curious figure will long be remem-

German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's Sore Throat, German Syrup. Last winter a lady called Hoarseness, at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as $100 a week for years past. P. O. box
